

CLAMORED FOR GATE MONEY.

Big Crowd Broke Into the Arena and Cried For Its Coin.

A PUGILISTIC FIASCO THAT LOOKED LIKE A FAKE.

One Good Mill That Was Worth the Price of Admission, Say the Sports, and One That Will Hardly Bear Investigation—
Returning Sports Capture Street Cars and Refuse to Pay Ten Cents Fare—A Night That Was Filled With Lively Episodes.

About five hundred sports from Canton and vicinity witnessed the boxing carnival given in the tent at the American village under the auspices of the Canton Athletic club, Tuesday night. As early as 6:30 p. m., the street cars carried many people to the scene and later cars were crowded to their utmost capacity.

The ring occupied the center of the spacious canvas, and was surrounded by reserved seats, which were crowded with enthusiasts and at 8:45 p. m. the crowd was pushing on the ropes on the outside of the reserved seats and yelling for the principals. Several bets of 2 to 1 at this time were made on Billy Moore, who was to fight Peter Traynor, and during the evening Traynor received the short end of the many bets that were made.

FIRST BOUT.

It Was a Warm One and the Principals
Was Pretty Well Battered About.

The first bout was between John McGinn, of Cleveland, and Herbert Lacy of Canton. This was a 15 round go to a decision at 130 pounds for a purse of $100.

At 9:20 the principals of this fight entered the ring with their seconds and officials amid great cheering and applause from the admirers of both contestants.

Mr. Lou Eckert, as announcer, said that Jeff Powers, of Cleveland, an old Canton favorite and champion light weight pugilist of Ohio had been selected as referee. Mr. Powers is a clever gentleman and from the way he refereed the fights showed that he had much experience and was received with great applause from his fair and impartial decisions during the fight. Billy Kelley, of Philadelphia, and Edward Quinn, of Canton, acted as seconds for McGinn and John Fitch and Peter Jackson, of this city, for Herbert Lacy. The timer was Mr. D. Jones, of Massillon.

The match started in earnest, both fighting hard from the beginning. During the fight McGinn showed great cleverness and scientific fighting and had the best of Lacy during the first rounds. The first blood was drawn by Lacy, in the 8th round, hitting McGinn a hard punch on the nose. In the 9th another ran on the nose caused more bleeding. At the end of the 10th round, Lacy went through the ropes and intended to leave the ring, claiming that his hand was hurt, and at first he and his seconds thought it was broken. He was loudly cheered as he entered the ring as the bell rang for the 11th round. The remaining rounds were good ones, both fighting hard and especially Lacy, despite his wounded hand. At the sound of the bell, announcing the end of the 15th round and the end of the fight, both repaired to their corner, seeming in good condition and not much the worse for wear for the one hour's bout. Referee Powers, in making his decision, stated that McGinn had the best of the fight in the first rounds, and Lacy in the last rounds, and he thought honors were even and the best he could do was to call the fight a draw.

CRIED FOUL.

Traynor Quit the Ring and the Big
Bout of the Evening Was a Complete Fizzle.

About 45 minutes elapsed before the contestants of the second exhibition made their appearance. This was to be between Joe Polezinsky and Ed Foreman, promising featherweights of Canton, six rounds for a decision. Difficulty occurred between the principals and the management at the club with regard to the purse and Polezinsky announced that their fight was declared off. Another long wait then occurred before the main fight of the evening between Moore and Traynor, it being claimed by Moore's adherents that Traynor had not posted his forfeit money. After much wrangling the matter was arranged and at 11:30 Moore and Traynor entered the ring and were introduced to the crowd. Traynor was introduced as the champion middle weight of Pennsylvania, and Moore, of Canton, who is willing to defend the title, as heavyweight champion of Ohio, was next introduced. This was to be the main event of the evening, a 15 round go to a decision (catch weights), for a purse of $150. The first part of first round had barely started when Traynor claimed foul and went to his corner. This excited the crowd who rushed over the seats and into the ring and Referee Powers declared the fight off.

CROWD CRIES FAKE.

Spectators Make a Noisy Clamor to Get Their Money Back After the Fistic Fiasco.

When the fight was seen to be a fluke cry of "fake" and "money back" came from the crowd as they rushed from the arena. Many crowded in little groups outside the canvas denouncing the management of the Athletic club, claiming the whole affair as a "put up job." The many friends of Moore and Moore himself were sorry the way the affair ended and Traynor was denounced as a "quitter" by the crowd as they made their way to the street cars.

Fully fifteen minutes elapsed after the fight before a greater part of the crowd left the tent. They were still clamoring for and yelling for their money.

Mat Bast of the American village where the event took place, stated to many persons that he was not interested in the affair in any way, only rented his ground to the Athletic club for the carnival. Just who the Canton Athletic club is, did not appear on the menu cards. A few Canton men were interested in the matter as promoters.

CHALLENGED.

John Fitch Announces That He is Anxious to Meet McGinn or Lacy.

John Fitch, who seconded Herbert Lacy last night at Meyer's Lake, announced to a News-Democrat man after the fight last night that he would like to meet either Lacy or McGinn, McGinn preferred, for a fifteen round bout.

STOLE A TRAILER.

Gang of Sports Would Not Pay Ten Cents Extra and the Trailer Was

The most amusing feature of the evening occurred while enroute to the city on the street cars. A second section consisting of one motor and three trailers and with several hundred of the local sports aboard, was rolling along at a rapid rate, when near the fair grounds, the cars came to a sudden stop. Upon inquiring as to the delay it was found that the conductor had attempted to collect 10 cents as the fare from the lake to the city. The crowd refused to pay the necessary 10 cents whereupon the conductor stopped the train declaring that the passengers would either have to pay the required amount or walk into the city, which was a mile and a half distant. This was not a promising outlook at 1 o'clock in the morning. Many jumped from the cars and started to walk, while others appeared to the conductor, but to no avail. After a delay of ten minutes the cars started, and at the junction where the cars turn into Tuscarawas street, the train stopped again. In a moment the conductor uncoupled the motor from the trailers and started at a 40-mile-an-hour clip down Tuscarawas street, leaving the crowd behind to walk home. Many cries of "let's get even with the street car company" and "dump the trailers in the ditch" were heard, but it was finally decided by a unanimous vote to ride in on a trailer. One trailer was uncoupled from the others and pushed around the curve by the crowd and given a start. There is a gradual down grade a short distance from the junction and after a good start nearly a hundred people jumped on the trailer and started merrily homeward. But this did not last long. At the switch near the old ball grounds, the car left the track. Everybody got off the car and after a few moments the delay the car was placed on the track and again started on its homeward trip. At the east end of the switch the car again jumped the track. It was the intention of the crowd at this point to put the car on the track again and push it to Harrison avenue, where the long hill on Tuscarawas street begins, and ride down to the car barns. While this was being put into execution, the glimmering lights of the patrol wagon hove in sight and the project was abandoned.

The wagon stopped at Harrison avenue and on each side of Tuscarawas street peaceful sports were walking home, apparently not knowing that the Canton Street Car line was the possessor of such a thing as a trailer.

The passengers on the first section had heard of the difficulty when entering the city and also saw the patrol wagon start in a westerly direction and many crowded at the patrol station to see if any of their friends were among the victims, but the wagon returned with nary a victim and everyone started home after their night's outing.

The people on the first section which left the lake about five minutes before the second paid 5c for their fare and why the conductor on the second section wanted to charge ten cents is not understood.

WAS A MISTAKE.

Assistant Superintendent Larry O'Toole was questioned concerning the collection of the ten cent fare. He said: "As a general rule on cars leaving the lake after 12 o'clock containing only 50 or 60 people, the conductor is authorized to collect the ten cent fare. It appears that the conductor of the first section last night did collect only five cents fares, but the conductor of the following section, evidently believing the rule applied to all occasions, tried to collect the ten cent fare. He was not authorized to do so but evidently did so under a misunderstanding of the rule. When larger numbers than 60 are on the cars the five cent fare only is collected."

CONSOLIDATION

Of Public Schools Abandoned
By the Marlboro Township
School Board.

Special to the News-Democrat.
Marlboro, O., June 20.—The township board of education was in session here Monday afternoon. Consolidation of the schools, which has been in operation for two years, by means of conveying the pupils to one point, was voted down, five to three, and the old district plan will be resumed next September. Teachers were employed for three schools: Soap Hill, W. H. Snyder; Tyro Hall, R. M. Hollibaugh; Bunker Hill, Miss Allie Begue. A number of bills were ordered paid and other routine business transacted.

LUTHER LEAGUE

Holds a Convention in Canton,
Resulting in Some Interesting Exercises.

The fourth annual convention of the Ohio Luther League began its two day's session in the Trinity Lutheran church, West Tuscarawas street, yesterday afternoon. The church was beautifully decorated for this occasion with flowers and plants, emblematic designs, and inscriptions were displayed in different parts of the church and the four colors of the league, red, white, black and gold, were artistically hung from the ceiling and draped on the walls.

The local league had arranged an excellent supper at Meyer's lake at which the delegates were assembled after the close of the afternoon services. About 100 delegates and members of the league were present.

The evening services began about 8:30 o'clock and were largely attended. Rev. C. S. Ernberger delivered an eloquent and impressive address on "Lutheran Piety in its Distinctive Phases," which was attentively listened to by those present.

A pretty solo was sung by Miss Byrl Fox. The first day's session then closed with a song by the congregation and benediction.

The government is now preparing to take the twelfth census, which involves a vast amount of work, and it will be necessary to appoint about 3,500 persons who will be employed in Washington, and 40,000 census takers for work throughout the country. CASTING AFTER FORAKER'S SEAT.

No Further Question as to the War for Extermination.

LOYAL LEGISLATORS WANTED.

They Are Being Picked in the Various Counties With a View to Defeating the Election of Foraker in 1901.

Special to the News-Democrat.

Columbus, Ohio, June 21.—The publication of the correspondence of Senator Foraker with ex-Governor Foster, C. D. Firestone and Hon. John Little upon the subject of Hanna's Senatorial candidacy had a stunning effect in political circles. It is regarded by Foraker's friends as a complete knock-out blow to the enemies of the Cincinnati statesman, who have been secretly and openly rejoicing at the campaign inaugurated by H. H. Kohlsatt, of Chicago, presumably at the instance of the adherents of the national administration, to retire him from the political field as an important factor. That it will create a revulsion of feeling in the bosom of thousands of Republicans, who have been believing that Foraker and Bushnell were traitors, there is no doubt. In fact there are many Hanna men today declaring that they have been deceived and that their eyes are now open to the truth. They say that they are now ready to believe what the friends of Foraker have been saying ever since the senatorial contest—that he was the victim of circumstances and honestly performed his duty toward his party, even if he did not openly support the dictator from Cleveland.

That it came with crushing effect upon the Hanna-Dick forces is apparent by their conduct. They appear to be dazed and silly and none of them has yet recovered sufficiently to frame a reply to the terrific broadside let loose by their arch enemy.

Governor Bushnell's friends are jubilant. He has been showered with congratulations, which he has borne with the same imperturbability that he bore the threats and insults, such as the letter of Judge Nash resigning his trusteeship. When asked concerning his views upon the correspondence, he said:

"The letters speak for themselves. I am glad that Senator Foraker has seen fit to make public this correspondence, for it clears up a misunderstood situation, throws light into dark places and presents facts that I am glad the Republican party of Ohio is to receive for its enlightenment. The letters speak for me."

Further than this the governor would not discuss the affair, either as to the effect or as to the cause which compelled Senator Foraker to make the correspondence public. But it was apparent that he was highly pleased, especially by the statement of ex-Governor Foster as to the brutality of his treatment by Hanna and by the expression of Foraker to the effect that he had borne much for the party's sake in meekness and in silence. He seemed to regard the presentation of the facts and the admission of Hanna's friend Foster that he had been brutally treated by Hanna as a vindication of his course. It will be remembered that at the time of the row he asserted that he was simply following precedent when he declined to interfere in Hanna's behalf. There was the case of Salmon P. Chase, who was elected senator by a fusion majority over Giddings. Then again President McKinley, when governor, openly stated that he would not take sides in the contest between Sherman and Foraker, and issued instructions to the state appointees to respect his wishes. Neither Chase nor McKinley suffered because of their non-interference.

Those who have read and have been impressed by the correspondence are wondering if the consequences of its publication will bring about a change in the policy that contemplates the retirement of Foraker at the end of his term. In his reply to ex-Governor Foster the senator intimated that he had a premonition of his fate when he refused to enter the lists for Hanna. He said: "I do not prefer him (Hanna) at the expense of my friends, and if for me to stay out of this fight, as I have done and intend to do, means my retirement four years from now so let it be." That he also looked forward to a fight when that auspicious moment arrived is indicated by the continuation of the letter: "But the people who are making proclamation of this program are handling a dangerous subject. It is full of dynamite and they should have a care else the explosion may come prematurely. It will be exceedingly important that they cut the time fuse exactly right. The elections of 1898, 1899 and particularly the election of 1900 all come before the election of 1901." If this does not mean war to the knife then the language has been sadly missed.

But the correspondence does not alter the fact that the outlined policy has been carefully followed ever since. Right now in every part of the state the Hanna machine is working to secure "loyal" members of the General Assembly who, under party rule, will be given second terms and will have a voice in the selection of Foraker's successor. The deliberate effort at the humiliation of Foraker at the state convention is but a week or two old in history. It is now an open question if the presentation of the facts by Foraker will not rouse his old followers and cause them to rally to his support through sheer sympathy and in resentment of the attacks made upon him by the Hanna-Cox combination.

ALIBI EVIDENCE WAS OFFERED.

Henderson Fought to the Last Ditch for His Liberty.

THE BURGLARY CASE CLOSES.

Has Been a Hard Fight, With Some Sensational Features Attached. Eloquent Arguments for the Prisoner and the State.

The case of the State of Ohio vs William Henderson went to the jury at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Tuesday afternoon was taken up in hearing witnesses for the defense whose endeavor it was to prove an alibi. Mrs. Emma Henderson, the defendant's wife, Joseph L. Hall, William J. Piero, Albert Cappe, E. C. Miller and William Henderson, himself, went upon the stand for the defense. The state then introduced the evidence of John Master, Louis Weaver and George Black in rebuttal. Attorney James A. Rice made a gallant fight for his client and Prosecutor Pomerene looked after the state's interest with his customary ability. At 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the defense rested and each side was granted an hour and a half by Judge McCarty for argument. Prosecutor Pomerene took up the time till the close of court. Wednesday morning Attorney Rice made an eloquent and forceful argument to the jury. He was followed by Prosecutor Pomerene in a forty minute address. Judge McCarty then delivered his charge and the jury withdrew.

Henderson remained in the court room for a short time in consultation with his attorney.

His wife and baby were also with him. At 11 o'clock, Deputy Sheriff Al Kincaid, who is assisting the sheriff's force during that official's absence, took the prisoner back to jail.

At 12:45 o'clock the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Attorney Rice at once gave notice that he would, within three days, file a motion for a new trial. Henderson was returned to jail.

SENTENCED.

At 3:15 this afternoon Henderson was brought into court and was sentenced to 8 years in the penitentiary.
